PREFACE.

*Her inter
a.*

THE likes of this book you never did see
In the heavens above or the earth or the sea
A mixture of matters of import so foreign
As the grave and the gay, the rare and the common.
There's the poet and parson, the cook and the punster,
Business and politics, the artist and doctor.
No wonder the cook a treasure house finds
And how to proceed from instructions now minds ;
For the cook without wit may not be unwise
And while kneading her dough may still moralize.
So with rhyme and with fun the busy housewife
May mingle her compounds and unburden her life ;
Thus this unsurpassed book will help the producer
And bring good digestion and peace to consumer.

BREAD-MAKING MADE EASY.

WHAT man desires to marry a woman who knows not how to make bread ?

For each loaf required use 1 cup of Lightning Yeast, 1 cup of warm water and a little salt. Mix in flour until you can knead without the dough sticking to the hands. Let rise, then mould and put on pans. If begun in the morning this process will give you new bread for dinner. It will not do to set sponge over night for it will sour.

RECIPE FOR HAPPINESS.

LET Care sit lightly ;
Grasp gold but slightly ;
Let Christ within
Free thee from sin.
Serve man as brother,
So help each other ;
To Christ close cling,
So live on wing.
And thy life shall be the whole day long
A ripple of heaven—a sweet, glad song.

THE POLITICIAN'S WAY.

WHEN Judge W. ——— of Montreal was Speaker of the Quebec Assembly he was greatly exercised on a number of occasions by the rough-and-tumble manner of speaking indulged in by a certain rising young politician who has since become possessed of considerable prominence. On the floor of the House the parliamentarian was frequently rebuked by the Speaker for calling his opponents 'liars'. At last the Speaker remonstrated with the offender privately and promised him that should he indulge again he must be expelled from the House.

"And what shall I do?" asked the M.P.P. in despair, "This fellow is always abusing me".

"Well," answered the Judge, "don't call him a liar. Tell him that he is a man notorious for the oblivion of the truth".

FUN AND FANCY.

HOW careful one needs to be of his company ! Two clergymen recently spending their holidays in a sea-side town were surprised by the first issue of the local newspaper after their arrival. One paragraph contained particular references to the newly arrived ministers. But an adjourning paragraph contained this astounding announcement :—

“A number of suspicious looking strangers have already arrived in C— B—, some of whom are doubtless preparing for a big haul at the carnival and races. Special police will be on the look-out for pickpockets and thieves, who, it is expected, will work in gangs”.

TO CAN TOMATOES.

USE nice fine tomatoes. Pour boiling water over them and remove the skins. Have ready on the stove your preserving kettle half full of hot water. Drop in the tomatoes whole, after they are peeled, and cook until a fork will penetrate the centre easily, then lift each tomatoe up with a fork and shake it before dropping it in warm sealer, thus filling your bottles with nothing but the tomatoes. These are sure to keep.

THE SABBATH.

SWEET Sabbath day ! I love thee,
Thou bringest peace and rest ;
The whisperings about me
Seem breathings of the blest.

Heaven lips to thee of Heaven ;
This calmness there more calm ;
For tears shall there be given
Love's everlasting Psalm.

Thy spirit and thy message
Divinely touch our life,
And truth, the precious fruitage,
Gives rest to surging strife.

And turned the many faces
From earth's enchanting wile,
There Heaven's joy now traces
The path care traced erstwhile.

Sad hearts, whose joys e'er vanish,
Awhile sojourn in peace ;
Where deep seas towered in anguish,
Hope bids the surge to cease.

A desert's waste will gladden
Beneath a smiling flower ;
And Sabbath chimes shall sweeten
The drear and lonely hour.

Thou day of all the seven,
Earth smiles because of thee ;
Shall burst these clouds, and riven,
Yield Heaven's felicity.

I love thee for thy rest-time—
Thy peace, when duty's done ;
I love thee for thy work-time,
For work and Heaven are one.

MRS. I. C.

SUTTON, QUE.

THE citizen of Sutton recognizes that nature has bountifully blessed his town, and his gratification is justified ; his boasting pardoned.

Sutton of long ago remains on record in the History of Thomas—a rare book to be carefully preserved by all who have it.

Sutton of yesterday, with her modest and much scattered buildings and business corners, guarded by noble trees, was lost in ashes on April 15th, 1898, between the hours of 7 and 11 a.m.

Sutton of today is a new and up-to-date, substantially built and progressive town, having almost forgotten disaster, breathing the breath of ambitious hopefulness for the future.

SUTTON--[Continued.]

 HERE are two vantage spots from which to view the town—one is on the northwest hill approaching the town from Sweetsburg, and just near the R. C. Church. From this point one contemplates a reproduction of Swiss Scenery, and the prospect of a town nestling in a verdant valley and supported by a bank of mountains over which the sun climbs belated from his midnight nap, is charming.

The other view point is to the east, on the brow of the hill composing Fairmount Cemetery. From this point the town takes on the appearance of a well defined Y, with the Episcopalian Church on the southern arm, the Roman Catholic on the northern, and the Methodist on the eastern.

INCORPORATED some three years since, as a village, the path of progress has lain through flood and fire, but the transformations and improvements speak volumes in praise of the young men who direct the energies of the town, and are prophetic of substantial and ample future growth.

A brief enumeration of the contents of Sutton may here be added. Fairmount Cemetery is most properly included as a part of the business make-up because of the enterprise it has developed, and because it is unsurpassed for location, outside of the city. From our outlook we find the town contains four Churches, good safeguards of morals and religion; Episcopalian—rector: E. T. Capel, Adventist—pastor: Eld. J. J. Theakston, Methodist—pastor: W. Bowman Tucker, M.A., Ph.D., Roman Catholic—cure: Father Brassard. These churches are endeavoring to work their ground faithfully.

BUSINESS enterprises are represented by ten general stores, two tinshops and hardware, one exclusively hardware and paint shop, one harness shop, two wheelwrights and five blacksmith shops, one bakery, one jeweler, two hotels, first class drug store, model post office, two millinery houses, three dressmaking establishments, one dentist, one marble works, one barber shop, two tailors, two doctors of extensive practice, one veterinary surgeon, two cabinet factories, two undertakers, two grist mills, two saw mills, two academies, numerous agencies, C. P. R. station, sheds, waterworks, etc., of a fine order; two boot and shoe makers, two photographers, two butchers, and the famous "Daisy" butter and cheese factory.

The residences are of a fine order and show a steady tendency to improvement. The Methodist Church parsonage was newly built in 1898 and the Episcopalian rectory is newly building in 1899.

SUTTON--(Continued.)

EXCELLENT lodge rooms invite the attendance of members of the Masonic, Oddfellows, and Foresters fraternities ; while Temperance hall is the home of a lodge of I.O.G.T. and of the W.C.T.U.

The town boasts a good Town Hall and property.

Best of all is its Waterworks—a new system with water of the purest quality [having been analyzed] and ampl. sufficient for all purposes. A good fire brigade is ready on call. Manufacturers will find this a safe place in which to locate.

The Mayor in 1899 is Geo. N. Thompson. With clean streets, pure morals, industry, intelligence, and godliness, Sutton aims to compete with the best.

W. B. T.

JOHNNY CAKE.

2 EGGS, 1 cup white sugar, $\frac{1}{2}$ cup butter, one cup milk, two small cups corn-meal, 1 small cup flour, 1 small teaspoon soda. Bake in quick oven.

E. M. T.

DANDY CAKE.

ONE-HALF cup brown sugar, $\frac{1}{2}$ cup melted butter, $\frac{1}{2}$ cup molasses, $\frac{1}{2}$ cup buttermilk, 2 cups sifted flour, sifted several times; 3 eggs, leaving out the white of one; 1 teaspoon of cloves, 1 teaspoon of all-spice, $1\frac{1}{2}$ teaspoons of cinnamon, 1 teaspoon of soda.

E. M. T.

LEMON FOAM.

TWO cupfuls of hot water, 1 cup sugar, 2 large tablespoonfuls corn-starch, juice of 1 lemon, whites of 2 eggs. Into an enamel-ware saucepan put 2 cupfuls hot water, 1 cup granulated sugar. When it boils add 2 tablespoonfuls of corn-starch wet in a little cold water, stirring as it boils. After cooking four or five minutes squeeze in the juice of 1 lemon; stir again thoroughly. Take it from the stove and set it to cool in a pan of cold water. In a large earthen dish whip to a froth the whites of 2 eggs. When the cooked corn-starch is cool enough, pour slowly over the whites of the eggs, beat briskly all the while. In about a minute the whole mass will be light and foamy and the pudding is done. Custard made of 1 pint of milk, 2 tablespoonfuls sugar, yolks of 2 eggs, beaten, may be poured over the "Lemon Foam" when served at the table.

E. L. C.

MUSTARD PICKLES.

PUT pickles in salt and water over night. 3 pints of vinegar, $\frac{1}{2}$ lb. mustard, 2 oz. mustard seed, 1 oz. tumeric, 1 teaspoonful salt. Mix mustard, sugar, tumeric and mustard seed with a pint of vinegar. The remaining 2 pints of vinegar heat until boiling hot and stir in your paste, stir for 5 minutes. The salt to be added last. Have your pickles in the jar and pour this on them.

I. A.

PUMPKIN PIE.

1 PINT cooked pumpkin, 1 pint sweet milk, 1 pint sugar, 4 eggs. Season with nutmeg and ginger.

THE FUTURE.

Upon the Past we look
And bury deep our face ;
The Future is a book
Wherein no steps we trace ;
And well it is for mortal man
That future ills he cannot scan.

The Iron Gate is barred
And opens not for man,
And on its portals glared
"The Unknown read, who can !"
And fate, and hate, and woe are sealed,
And Faith, Hope, Love alone revealed.

The night is dark and drear,
And loud the storm and strong,
The breaking breakers near,
The good ship struggling on ;
But through the Future's deep, dark gloom
Omniscience guides us safely home.

W. B. T.

FORWARD.

g, one negar.

THY Master is before thee. And not far hence thy goal.
Enshrined in golden glory a laurel wreath awaits thee.
March on ! Not in pomp and pageantry and pavillioned splendor
Lies the joy of living ; but in pure purposes
And heavenward aims, which, by a faith omnipotent,
Buoy up a life or lives midst common pains. For not the ocean,
Old ocean, loud speaking, self praising,
But the rippling rivulet gathering itself
Into nook and cranny and hidden dell
Content with a few bordering flowers, and its life work
Not perfect beauty more than real goodness—
This is the messenger of life and hope and faith.
Be thine the self forgetfulness, whose worth makes
True goodness, real nobleness. Be thine a life
Whose spirit yearns to earth to bring down heaven
And thus lift earthly lives to heavenly purity.
Go forward ! Ever onward ! And upward let thine eye Behold thy true Ideal. Whence thine shall be
The victor's step secure, who through fire and wave
By countless deadly foes opposed
Moves scarthless forward to the quiet and the calm
Of heaven's sweet rest and peace.
